Chip,

We are getting a bit more strict on our completeness reviews, because we requested the VIA and it wasn't submitted it is not considered complete. It has not been denied, only returned until we get that information.

Thanks,
Jessie

Hi Jessie,

Just following up my voicemail. I got thinking more about this and am wondering if there is a way we can do this without formally denying the application. I can just see the BDN and others taking that and running with it for a relatively minor item. I guess the question is whether what is provided meets the hurdle of completeness. I'll be clear that I have no problem in revising this to expand and improve on what was submitted. Just hopeful we can do it without saying it's incomplete.

Thanks again,
